

On 10-11 July in Wolverhampton, UK, was held the final conference at European project EL4VET part of the "Lifelong Learning - Leonardo da Vinci - Transfer of Innovation" Programme.

The event was attended by representatives from the partner organizations from six European countries - Bulgaria, Portugal, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Poland and the United Kingdom. The conference brought together academics and external for the project experts in the field of emotional literacy and intelligence.

The main objective of the project EL4VET is to increase the emotional literacy of teachers and trainers working in vocational training and education in Europe and help them to perform better when establishing relationships and communicating with their students, trainees or colleagues.

More information about the event and the project activities may be found on the official website of the project: <http://el4vet.eu/>
